

Our station is highly automated, however the "voices" you hear on the radio are likely one of three people. Scott Evans and Mark Flanagan are the co-owners of the station and can be heard on various programs and ads. Our good friend John Mills also does a few promos and hosts a daily program on the station. You will also hear various people on syndicated programs and several artists have been gracious enough to record liners for our station. Our station promos and liners were done professionally.
